- Will you state all facts in detail pertaining to atrocities, war crimes, violations of Rules of Land Warfare and human decency at Camp # 17, Omuta, the dates thereof, the perpetrators, giving their names, ranks, units and other identifying information.
- When I first arrived at Camp # 17 Omuta, we were not bothered much for the first week or so. Ten nearly every day there would be three of four prisoners taken to the guardhouse and subjected to torture and beatings. The Japanese would claim we had not "goose stepped" enough or had failed to salue a call "curi" (a verbal salute). In the guardhouse the prisoners would be forced to kneel on bamboo poles about two inches thick and remain in that position for hours. I myself had to do that once for five hours, and the poles made dents along my shins and at my knees. It was several days before I could walk straight knees. It was several days before I could wark straight after that. One "ustralian had to have both legs amputated above the ankle because his feet froze when he was forced to kneel in that manner during last winter. Also I was beaten with a club about six inches wide and an inch and a half thick and about as long as a baseball bat. occurred while I was in the guardhouse about August or September 1944. I saw many others received the same treatment nearly every day. The commander of the camp when I first got there was 1st Lt. Urri but I do not remember his successor's name who took over about a year later. The camp interpreter's name was Oui. Another civilian called Yamamuchi was the interpreter at the coal mine where we worked. He would torment those prisoners, who were injured or sick and forced to go to the mine for light work, by forcing them to use their injured arm or strained back for work they could not do. He was an average Jap with no peculiar marks. Spoke English.

Also when a prisoner was to be beaten the guards would force the rest of us to watch and would ridicule and laugh at a prisoner if he "hollered".

During the last three or four months I was told by some of the prisoners that they were made to stand in a puddle of water and then shocked unconscious by a 110 volt electric wire. We heard these men scream when this happened and talked to one Dutchman and one American soldier who had this done to them.

Sometimes I saw men get beaten with steel rods about a quarter inch thick and three or four feet long. One American named Gousith (phonetic) was beaten in this manner.

His prison number was 500. This happened two or three months before the Japs surrendered. A lot of men caught pneumonia from having cold water thrown on them in the winter just as they started out for work,

Capt. Thomas Hewbitt, M.C. has complete medical records of treatment given the prisoners and records of those killed from beatings or died for want of proper medical care.
